

ADS Fiber Optic Cable Standard

Overview

This standard covers the construction, mechanical and electrical performance, test requirements, environmental considerations, and acceptance criteria for qualifying hardware for use with All-Dielectric Self-Supporting (ADSS) fiber optic cable. Fiber Optic Cable 258 Original Std ADSS Flex-Span ADSS New Std ADSS Applications • Electric utility transmission lines - Typically framed under conductors • EHV environments - Tracking-resistant options available Features • Up to 432 fibers in cable - Gel-Free Buffer Tube options available - up to. ADSS (All-Dielectric Self-Supporting) fiber optic cables are specifically produced for elevated applications in electric power transmission and distribution. They are adopted widely because they are made of fully dielectrics, are relatively lightweight, and can be installed even without conducting. These notices and disclaimers, or a reference to this page, appear in all standards and. ADSS Fiber Optic Cable work in a large-span two-point support (usually hundreds of meters, or even more than 1 km) overhead state, completely different from the traditional concept of overhead (post and telecommunications standard overhead hanging wire hook program, an average of 0. 2 The cable shall be used for aerial install levant IEC, ITU-T and EIA Recommendation or bette ha 25 years without any at en ar ing can be changed w ted by a metal cover firmly secured to the flange.
